“A LETTER TO MY DAUGHTER JAMIE ON THE THIRD ANNIVERSARY OF HER DEATH”

No Dad or Mom should ever have to write a letter like this to any of their children. This is just not the natural order of life and the grief of loss can be felt everywhere in your body and soul as a parent. I think of you every day and cry out to you hoping you can hear me. I look at your pictures, listen to your voice, and try to contact you. I get so desperate at times that I have tried to email jamiec@heaven.com. I then think what are you doing!? You are frozen in time. I remember so many “lasts”. You are a part of my DNA and I can feel your presence in so many ways but I can’t find you! My heart is still broken and continues to ache.

I am learning to trust in God’s plan a little more. You continue to be missed so much. In a crazy way my faith is stronger, but I still have so many questions. I look to you for so many things. We have continued to grow Jamie’s team and work on showing people the way you lived your life of kindness and asking everyone to try to “Be more like Jamie” everyday! You have so many people that love you and are still praying for you and support you every day. You are changing the world one small child at a time and helping to make this world a better place!

My hope and prayer for you on this very sad day for us is that heaven is as beautiful as we have been promised. You are up there with so many friends and family enjoying your eternal heavenly life. I pray that you have a connection with us and can still feel our love and I trust that you know more and understand better this whole tragic event. I pray that you can watch over Chloe and Cody and protect them and be with them. Chloe really misses you. Cody is still a little young but we talk about you to him. May God Bless your soul and keep you in the palm of his hands until we meet again.

As I close tonight, I hope you can see all the good that is being done in your name and memory. With the support of so many kind and generous people, your mission will grow. My eyes still weep for you, my heart still aches for you and my soul still searches for you. We will be together again when the time comes. Until then my sweet angel, I will continue to work hard to be sure that you and all the good things that you have done will never be forgotten. We must all remember that “whoever is remembered never dies”. I will never let you die. I am so proud to be your Dad.

XOXO

Jamie’s dad
